Wilson Obeyed Doctor In Not Delivering
His Message in Person

Washington, December 7.—It was not until within a few hours of the convening of congress today that President Wilson stated his decision not to deliver his annual message in person.

To his personal physician, Rear Admiral Grayson, who called upon him this morning, the president stated that he had decided to abide by the advice of Dr. Grayson and Mrs. Wilson.

"I am your patient," the president is reported to have told Admiral Grayson, "and will, therefore, follow your advice."

several disputed questions. First of all to Mr. Wilson's mentality. That it was the outpouring of the president's own heart, and expressed his own long, clear, lucid, convincing, sincere, every person, even his bitter enemies, do not hesitate to admit. That more forceful state paper, though concise and comparatively brief, was submitted by the president, is also admitted. That he omitted any extended reference to international affairs with which he is so closely wedded, indicates that it is not his farewell message, but that this congress will be advised specifically of this question before the 4th of March. That the ring of true and unafraid democracy is distinct the face of a hostile political congress is evidenced by the reading and that his positions on the great problems he discussed are popular with the masses, irrespective of party alignments, is assured from the several expressions of satisfaction that followed its release.

Pathos in Closing Paragraph.—Without exception the members of the Georgia delegation refer to it as one of the great executive papers of the Wilson administration, sound and safe in every particular. There was a strain of pathos, circumstances considered, in the closing paragraph, which follows:

"I have not so much laid before you a series of recommendations as sought to utter a confession faith, of the faith of which I was bred and which it is my solemn purpose to stand by until my last fighting day. I believe this to be the faith of America, the faith of the future, and of all the victories which await national action in the days to come, whether in America or elsewhere.

reading and the long and enthusiastic applause of democratic men

Is Badly Wounded By Escaped Inmate Of State Asylum

Robert Harper's Neck Slashed While Attempting to Capture Crazy
Atlanta Man.

Milledgeville, Ga., December 7.—(Special).—Robert Harper, prominent merchant and citizen of Baldwin county and postmaster at Meriwether station, 8 miles north of Milledgeville, was badly wounded and came near being killed this afternoon by J. E. Kimsey, of Atlanta, an escaped patient from the Georgia state sanitarium. Harper had been asked by attendants from the sanitarium, who had learned that Kimsey was going in that direction to be on the lookout for the escaped man and to detain him. This Harper was attempting to do when, without warning, Kimsey pulled from his pocket an open knife and with one stroke inflicted a long gash around the right side of Harper's neck under the chin. The wound, while a bad one, was not deep enough to sever the jugular vein, though it laid it bare. Harper was quick enough even though bleeding profusely, to take the knife from the lunatic and to overpower him.

Harper, together with J. A. Rope, was riding down the road that parallels the railroad, and seeing the escaped patient, Harper got out of the car and went to meet Kimsey and was questioning him when the attack was made. Rope came to the rescue and Kimsey was placed in the car and hurriedly driven to Milledgeville without stopping in Meriwether.

Harper was brought immediately to a surgeon's office, where his wound was dressed. He was pale and weak from loss of blood, but it is thought he will soon recover. Kimsey was turned over to city police and sanitarium attendants soon took him to the institution. Kimsey is from Atlanta and has been a patient here for twenty years. He is about 40 years of age. His escape was made yesterday afternoon and was discovered at supper. Attendants had been in search for him since that time.

CHESTON KING LIBRARY GIVEN TO OGLETHORPE

The Cheston King library, donated last spring to Oglethorpe university by Dr. Cheston King, of Atlanta, for the use of the English department of the university, is now on the seas on its way to Atlanta, according to cable advice just received.

The library was purchased in Germany and consists of the private collection of books relating to English scholarship left by the late Professor Victor, of Marburg. The books will constitute one of the finest collections of works on its particular subject in America. The estimated value of the works is about $20,000. The books will be housed in the new Lupton hall of Oglethorpe, where they will be accessible alike to students of that institution and to scholars from elsewhere.

Deaf Mutes Will Celebrate Birthday Of T. H. Gallaudet

A celebration in honor of the 133d birthday of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, the greatest benefactor of the deaf mutes of America, will take place in the parlor rooms of the Second Baptist church Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, according to announcement of J. W. Michaels, missionary and evangelist to the deaf in the south.

Appropriate addresses will be made after which a short social will be held. Light refreshments will be served. All the deaf people of Atlanta and surrounding country are invited to be present at this celebration.

Mr. Michaels also states that arrangements have been made to have Professor James H. McFarlane, of the Alabama School for the Deaf, to come to Atlanta once a month to preach to the mutes at the Second Baptist church.

HAMON CASE GIRL WILL SURRENDER

morrow the suggestion of Sheriff Orndorff that the sheriff here send a man or men to El Paso.

The county attorney said he was "very sorry" that Sheriff Orndorff's message had been given "premature publication."

He said it might seriously injure or render impossible the chances of having Miss Smith returned to Ardmore, should the woman under surveillance in the unnamed Mexican town prove to be the alleged slayer of Mr. Hamon.

Mr. Brown refused to comment on steps that possibly would be taken in the event Miss Smith has been located, inasmuch as the present regime in Mexico has not been formally recognized by the United States.

He said he had telegraphed to the district attorney of Bexar county requesting that official to take entire charge of the investigation of a statement alleged to have been made by P. M. Ross, San Antonio newspaper man, that he knew the whereabouts of Miss Smith, and was prepared to make known the whereabouts only under certain conditions.

Mr. Brown indicated, however, that he placed little credence in the Ross statement—that Ross had met Miss Smith near San Antonio while her motor car was stalled by the roadside.

The county attorney did not say how important he regarded the El Paso advice.

POLICE DOUBT REPORTER'S TALE.

San Antonio, Texas, December 7.—P. M. Ross, a local newspaper man, who claims to have conversed with Clara Barton Smith, sought in connection with the fatal shooting at Ardmore, Oklahoma, of Jake L. Hamon, was taken into custody by police detectives at his home here early today, questioned for an hour and released.

Ross was questioned at the request of Russell R. Brown, county attorney of Ardmore, who asked that his story be investigated, and that he be detained as a material witness if necessary.

Ross was escorted to police headquarters, where he refused to make any statement concerning the woman's whereabouts, or discuss the case with the police. He was immediately taken into conference with police officials and detectives.

Ross, according to information here, had claimed to know the whereabouts of Miss Smith and had asserted that she had given him a statement.

At the conclusion of the conference, Captain James Duncan, of the police department, stated that he was inclined to doubt the newspaper man's story.

Ross, according to the police, refused to tell the whereabouts of the young woman, asserting that he would go to jail first.

The story told by Ross of his interview with Miss Smith, according to police, followed somewhat her statements to E. W. Salis, of Dallas, the chauffeur who drove Miss Smith from Dallas to El Paso.

Ross, who is an employee of The San Antonio News, said he had heard in a hotel lobby last Saturday that Miss Smith was in San Antonio and through acquaintance during his previous employment in Oklahoma, recognized her.

While a companion fixed two flat tires on Miss Smith's automobile, Ross said he took her to a nearby farm house, and there, he said, she told him she had killed Hamon. According to Ross, she declared she was willing to face any judge or jury.

LETTERS ARE STOLEN FROM WIDOW HAMON.
Chicago, December 7.—Four unidentified men forced an entrance last night into an apartment building here, where the widow of the late Jake L. Hamon lives. The men seized a quantity of personal papers and seventy-five letters received by Mrs. Hamon during her absence at Ardmore, where her husband was mysteriously shot to death. The intruders took nothing else.

Charles Willis, landlord of the building, had the letters and papers in his apartment, which is across the hall. Actions of the men indicated the seizure had been carefully planned, police said.

Fort Worth, Texas, December 7.—"I don't believe my apartment in Chicago was robbed," Mrs. J. L. Hamon widow of the late Jake L. Hamon, republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, said today when asked concerning a Chicago dispatch which stated that four unidentified men forced their way into her apartment in that city and seized some of her personal papers and letters.

"That story is another invention of the imagination, probably of some newspaper reporter, just like the story about Clara Smith's slaying," Mrs. Hamon, referring to the non-existence of Clara Smith, meant, she said, that insofar as the moral actions of her husband and the connection with the girl and the shooting were concerned, no such person existed. The girl had nothing to do with Mr. Hamon's death and had not cast a shadow over Mrs. Hamon's life, she said.

ZONITE

the World-War Antiseptic

Greatest Chemical Discovery of the Century

ZONITE is a highly concentrated and stabilized form of Dakin's Solution, the marvelous antiseptic discovered by two famous surgeons of the Rockefeller Institute, New York City, which accomplished such remarkable results in the hospitals of the Allied armies and saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of desperately wounded men. This form of antiseptic has been adopted by the medical profession throughout the civilized world.

Zonite is more than twice as powerful as Carbolic acid. It is forty times as powerful as the strongest solution of Carbolic acid which can be used freely on the human body without injury. It is one hundred times as powerful as most of the mild and foaming antiseptics used by the public heretofore.

The wonder of Zonite is this: Although it destroys germs instantly, it is harmless to human flesh and heals a wound with astonishing rapidity. Distinguished physicians say that Zonite will save more lives in times of peace than Dakin's saved in war. Below are some of the marvels that the new antiseptic will accomplish when used in the home.

For cuts and wounds

Zonite, when promptly used on a cut or wound, kills the germs which cause lockjaw, blood poison and all other forms of infection, and then heals the wound in about half the usual time, and with none of the usual pain and inflammation. The antiseptic should always be kept in the home ready for emergency, and should never be omitted from the baggage of the traveler, camper or sportsman.

To prevent contagious diseases

If the nose and throat are sprayed with Zonite and water after leaving or before entering school-rooms, theaters, street cars, sickrooms, etc., the germs which cause Scarlet fever, Diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, pneumonia, colds, grippe, and other respiratory diseases, will be destroyed. In times of epidemics, therefore, the new antiseptic will be of incalculable value.

As a mouth wash

All dentists know that pyorrhea is the bane of dental surgery. The disease is almost impossible to check when it is thoroughly established. If the toothbrush on which the pyorrhea germs lodge is sterilized daily with Zonite and the mouth rinsed with Zonite and water, the disease cannot be contracted. In addition to this, the breath will be fresh and sweet, all particles of food not removed by the tooth brush will be destroyed and disinfected and the gums will be hardened. Zonite also whitens the teeth by removing the yellow film.

Personal hygiene

All poisonous antiseptics when used continuously as a douche are tremendously harmful. Any physician will verify this statement. Zonite, on the contrary, while destroying germs most effectively, leaves the mucous membrane healthy and unharmed.

For catarrh

A series of medical tests have shown that Zonite is a certain and effective agent for checking this disease. Catarrh is caused by germs. Nothing powerful enough to kill these germs could be used in the nasal passage until the discovery of the world war antiseptic. Zonite is used as a nasal spray in overcoming this obnoxious, common and stubborn complaint.

For the sick room

Zonite is invaluable in the sickroom as a sterilizing agent, disinfectant and deodorizer. It will sterilize fever thermometers, dishes and utensils, and should be used in all water in which the patient is washed.

For burns

Zonite will soothe and heal slight or serious burns. It will also remove the pain and inflammation caused by sunburn.

For sore throat

When the symptoms of sore throat first appear, use a solution of Zonite as a gargle or spray. It is not only soothing and healing, but will destroy the germs which are responsible for this condition and may be the forerunner of a dangerous disease.

For colds in the head.

If a solution of Zonite is promptly sprayed in the nose and throat in the earlier stages, common colds in most instances will be checked at once and the misery of a hard cold entirely prevented.

For old sores

Zonite is the greatest healing agent known for old sores, running sores and slow-healing wounds. Used in strong solution it will rapidly dissolve dead tissue, remove proud flesh, reduce inflammation and stop the discharge of pus, rendering the sores clean and healthy. A light solution, used daily, will then aid in rapid healing.

Social diseases

If Zonite were used consistently and universally as a preventive, it would drive social diseases from the face of the earth, as it affords positive immunity against diseases of this character.

For boils, carbuncles and pimples

Zonite will cleanse, disinfect and greatly aid in healing all troubles of this character.

For body odors

Zonite is a remarkable deodorizer. It will instantly remove all odor of perspiration from the person and leave no odor of its own.

To remove stains

Zonite will remove ink, fruit and other stains from any white material in a few moments' time. The antiseptic should not be allowed to come in contact with colored fabrics.

For the feet

Perspiring and swollen feet are relieved and deodorized if bathed in a solution of Zonite and water.

To rid the home of poisons

Statistics show that the number of men, women and children who die annually as a result of taking poisons by mistake is appalling. Zonite is non-poisonous, and may be used as freely and frequently as desired without injurious consequences.

For dandruff

Zonite will destroy germs which cause diseases of the scalp. If used a few times after shampooing, the scalp becomes healthy and clean and the cause of dandruff is removed.

For bed linen

All bed linen used by persons afflicted with a contagious disease should be washed in water to which Zonite has been added. This will not only disinfect the bed clothing, but the sheets and pillow cases will become as white as snow.

For infants

Zonite is invaluable in the care of babies. It will disinfect milk bottles and nipples, and should be added to the bath water to prevent skin infection.

After shaving

Zonite will soothe the skin and prevent infection of any sort.

Insect bites

Zonite will counteract the poison and allay the inflammation caused by bee stings, insect bites, etc.

To disinfect drinking water

A few drops of Zonite added to a glass of questionable water will kill all bacteria and make it perfectly safe to drink. The antiseptic should be used for this purpose wherever Typhoid is epidemic.

Tooth and hair brushes

It is highly important that tooth and hair brushes, particularly the former, should be kept free from germs. Zonite will accomplish this and will not injure the bristles.

As a general disinfectant

A $1.00 bottle of Zonite will make ten gallons of a powerful disinfecting solution which will disinfect and deodorize sinks, toilets, garbage cans, bed pans, ice boxes, etc.

Zonite is a colorless liquid that does not stain, and leaves no odor. It is now sold by all druggists. A corps of trained nurses is stationed in the principal downtown drug stores. They will be glad to give full particulars regarding Zonite.

POLICE BOARD WILL AID COUNCIL PROBE

Discontinue Own Investigation of the Force, Temporarily, at Least.

In deference to the police probe ordered by city council, the board of police commissioners have discontinued temporarily their investigation into the department, which had been decided upon following the report of Chief of Detectives Lamar Poole and Solicitor John Boykin, who conducted a number of raids on alleged gambling places in the city.

A meeting which was to be open to the public and to be presided over by a special committee consisting of Chairman Aldine Chambers, W. C. Stradley and W. R. Johnson, had been called for Tuesday evening to consider any evidence that might be offered tending to show negligence or otherwise reprehensible conduct within the police department. This meeting was called off by Chairman Chambers Tuesday morning.

Co-operation with city council was the reason given by Mr. Chambers Tuesday evening. He stated that there was no need of the two bodies making the same investigation, and that he and the other two members of the committee had been requested by the council to aid them in their probe. He announced that he would give every possible assistance.

Chief of Detectives Poole was personally invited to the first meeting of the council committee in the committee room, to be held Thursday morning. It is believed that all the heads of the police department will be requested in that manner. However, no direct notice had been given to Chief of Police Beavers up to Tuesday night. Both chiefs expressed their willingness to help council in every way possible to get to the bottom of the criticisms hurled at the department recently.

A written summons Tuesday was served upon Gordon H. Hurte, clerk of the recorder's court, to appear on Thursday morning before the committee meeting and to bring with him all documents and other evidences which he possesses pertaining to his duties.

The five men constituting the council committee are Chairman Harvey Hatcher, Alderman D. R. Wilder, Councilmen Claude Ashley, J. G. Murphy and Alvin Richards. The latter two are the authors of the resolution calling for the probe.

PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETING POSTPONED

Official notification that the meeting of the Georgia Press Association scheduled to be held this month in Macon has been postponed until January has been issued by President J. K. Simmons.

Mr. Simmons is advising members of the association of the postponement through the following statement which is being sent out by mail:

"A large number of publishers have suggested that our midwinter meeting be put off until around January 10. I wrote out a notice to this effect over a week ago and mailed to Secretary Stanley and suggested that he issue a bulletin at once and incorporate this notice in it. I had a letter from him the latter part of last week saying he was ill and had been unable to attend to this, hence this delay in notifying you of the postponement. Mr. Stanley states the governor is calling a meeting of the Georgia Enterprise, bankers and business men, for Macon, January 10, and suggests that we meet at that time. Anyway, we will postpone our meeting until some time in January. I suggest that we meet at that time. We have some very important matters to talk about, especially prices."

$15 FINE ASSESSED FOR BLOCKADING GRADY AMBULANCE

Charged with having blockaded the Grady ambulance while it was on an emergency call Sunday night, George Dunnean, 22 years old, of 45 Tulin street, was fined $15 and costs by Recorder Johnson Tuesday afternoon. It was alleged that Dunnean drove his automobile directly in front of the ambulance while he was crossing Marietta street on Fourth avenue, despite the fact that the ambulance driver, E. V. Abernathy, had sounded his bell.

According to testimony of Dr. M. M. Burns, who was in the ambulance at the time, Dunnean sped off when he started to remonstrate, and that Abernathy had to chase about fifteen blocks to catch his car. When finally he did overtake the car, Dr. Burns said, Dunnean deserted it. Summons were served on Dunnean Monday.

SUCCESS, GREETING CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Despite Adverse Weather Conditions, Good Reports Are Expected Friday.

Despite the adverse weather which set in Tuesday, good reports on the work of the "clean-up" campaign are expected at the meeting, which has been called in the assembly hall of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, for the purpose of rendering statements on what has already been accomplished and planned for the rest of the campaign—until December 18.

The ward chairmen who are assisting Mrs. R. M. Striplin, general chairman of the work, will attend the meeting Friday, and an invitation is given to all others interested in the motives of the campaign to attend. The closest co-operation is being given by the residents of all the wards, according to Mrs. Striplin, and those in charge are greatly encouraged at the success of the work, even that of Monday, the day of its beginning.

One ward chairman reported Tuesday that on her way to town Monday she saw fourteen front yards being cleaned, yards of houses which had been canvassed in educational campaign prior to the clean-up drive's start. Mrs. John Justis, chairman of the third ward, has circulated pledges among all the residents of the wards, the obtaining of signatures implying that the signer will do everything in his or her power to aid in the movement. Mrs. Justis says that the "petitions" are meeting with great favor and unanimous affirmation of signatures.

Move to Discontinue Naval Stores Trade Rejected in Savannah

Savannah, Ga., December 7.—A proposal to discontinue trading in naval stores until January 3 because of the present condition of the market was rejected unanimously late today by the executive committee of the naval stores board of trade of Savannah.

This was one of the most important meetings of the naval stores interests held in Savannah in years. Prior to the meeting it was anticipated that Jacksonville would follow the same course of Savannah if this action was taken. The proposal had been submitted in the form of a resolution earlier in the day and this action had been made public without taking into account the real sentiment of the trade, according to Secretary Purse. In rejecting adoption of the resolution the committee deplored the publicity given the matter. Trading on the stock market has been quiet for some time.

7 Savannahians Narrowly Escape Death on Coast

Savannah, Ga., December 7.—A party of seven Savannahians on a combined pleasure and business trip down the coast in a motorboat had a narrow escape from death late yesterday as they were returning, at Wilmington Island, when their boat caught fire, was sunk in less than one minute. They arrived unhurt in Savannah this morning by way of the Isle of Hope.

As the party neared Wilmington Island, for some cause unknown, the boat caught fire, a terrific explosion occurring, and in an instant the vessel was wrapped in a sheet of flame. The gas escaping all but overcame them, one being on the point of unconsciousness when he fell into the salt water and was by it revived instantly. All of the party could swim except one, and he was saved by the others, who swam to a raft their motorboat was towing.

No sooner were they safe on the raft than the boat, which had gone down in less than a minute's time, began to tip the raft, by tugging at the rope, but by merest chance the rope had so far burned that it snapped in two and the raft righted itself. Saved for the second time, the party faced the fact of drifting for an indefinite time.

D'ANNUNZIO HALTS WAR AGAINST ITALY

Triest, December 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The "state of war" between the regency of Quarnaro at Fiume and Italy will not proceed, said an official statement given out by the headquarters of Gabriel d'Annunzio today. It declared because d'Annunzio had received a note from the Italian ministry of war stating that General Caviglia's order, which brought about the post-soldier's declaration of a state of war with Italy, did not have the character of an ultimatum.

Members of the special commission of Italian deputies which has interviewed d'Annunzio in Fiume left for home tonight before departing they gave out a statement in which they said they had been received affably by d'Annunzio and that he spoke clearly that it was possible for the deputies to talk in conversation that they had hopes that an agreement could be reached.

EXPLAINS APPLICATION OF CENTRAL RAILROAD

Savannah, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—With reference to a press dispatch today from Washington concerning the application of the Central of Georgia railroad to issue sixty millions in refunding and general mortgage bonds, Vice President A. R. Lawton, of the company, stated that the mortgage referred to was one made last April. He said that the road is issuing no bonds now and that the facts contained in the press dispatch were published when the mortgage was made some time ago.

Recently the road applied for authority to draw down eleven millions of bonds to reimburse the treasury of the road for additions already made in the application for this, the terms of the old mortgage being released.

LETTING the old cough or cold

REPUBLICANS INTEND TO HIT SOUTH HARD

Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, Apparently Is Striving for
Force Bill Fame—House
Appointments.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Washington, December 7.—(Special.)—The members of the sixtieth congress who hold over in the sixty-seventh will have a ten days' breathing spell between March 4, when the farewells of the dying session will be sung, until the extra session that then President Warren G. Harding will call. This extra session will convene on the 14th of March. The president-elect has not authorized that date, but the republican group—the old guard that ran things at the Chicago convention—has agreed that time is the essence of the G. O. P. contract with the country, and the earlier the extra session the better, is the accepted plan.

Already it is plainly evident that President-elect Harding is a putty man in the hands of the Lodge-Penrose-Smoot-Mondell-Gillette machine. That he is to be president in name only is assured. The men who made him the nominee at the midnight conference at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago, when Wood was rolled flat and Lowden was thrown overboard, are the men who are going to be the real throne powers in the incoming administration.

Talking about hold-over members of congress there are so few of them on the democratic side that the next few weeks will be largely taken up by them in trying to find out just where they are going to land on committee assignments. And in the meantime the host of retiring members will be delivering valedictories, paying farewell social visits and packing up effects for long vacations back in the quiet corners of the nation from whence they came. Some of these cases are pathetic.

Former Georgia Downed.
Take Moon, of Tennessee, one of the oldest and ablest men in congress from the south. At the age when life ought to open its easiest paths of travel, he is thrown back upon a merciless world almost as much a novice in the rough and tumble affairs of men as a young man just out of college unacquainted with the real problems of life. He has been in congress so long that everything else in the way of a livelihood, has faded out of his calculations.

And there is Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, a member of the ways and means committee, and one of the most capable representatives on either side of the house. His defeat was such a shock to him and to his friends that he has not yet found his bearings.

And there are scores of other cases that are really heart stirring. There is Congressman Jule, of Illinois, a former Georgian. He is a republican, but he went down under the Thompson hammer in Chicago. When he came to congress he turned a lucrative law practice over to his nephew. And now that nephew is not disposed to hand it back, nor is Jule disposed to take it, so there you are.

Increasing House Membership.
One of the lively fights before the sixty-seventh congress will be the proposal to reapportion congressional representation on a basis of the 1920 census. Representative Siegel, chairman of the house census committee, has already introduced a bill proposing to make the new apportionment unit 218,979, as compared to 211,877, based on the 1910 census. That would add forty-eight new members to the house and would give additional representation to practically all of the southern states, where the growth of population has been greatest, taking the area as a whole. Texas would get three new members. North Carolina two, and Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Arkansas and Oklahoma each one.

Representative Hull, of Tennessee, has introduced a bill limiting the total representation to 450 members, as against 435 at the present time.

It is not probable that either of these bills will pass. There will be a strong and perhaps bitter fight on the southern representation. That this is true has already been indicated in a new force bill by Tinkham, of Massachusetts, to which I shall refer presently.

Not Looking Southward.
That republican leaders are not hopeful of making any further inroads into the south, and are convinced that they cannot even permanently retain what they have, is very evident from circumstances that are creeping out every day since the heads got together here on Monday. Therefore, the idea of increased southern representation that is not offset by further increases from the north, is not a republican stronghold will not appeal to them as good political reasoning. In order to increase both would be to make the unit so small that New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and other congested centers with great cities, would swamp congress with their city members, to the exclusion of rural members on a party basis. That would also make the house unwieldy, and demand a complete remodeling of the present assembly hall. Therefore there is going to be a great deal of figuring as how to keep the republican stronghold to a maximum strength, and the solidly democratic states to a minimum. There is no question about it. The republicans are playing politics now, and playing with a desperation never before seen in American governmental affairs.

After "Force Bill" Fame.
If Georgia is permitted by the new apportionment to have three members of the lower house the additional congressmen for 1922-24 will be from the state at large, and the restricting, which devolves upon the state legislature, will no doubt accord the new members to Fulton and DeKalb, their city interests being so closely connected with the state legislature. Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, is a peculiar little man—Frenchy in his looks, with a characteristic cut of the whiskers that denotes "dukedoms," and all that sort of thing. He is a typical Massachusetts south hater, it appears. I know the gentleman quite well and he is as affable and pleasant and irritable and I think he is also not adverse to publicity. Most members of congress rarely like it.

At any rate the gavel had scarcely dropped for the last time of the sixty-sixth congress before Tinkham had dropped into the hopper a resolution for an investigation of the alleged disfranchisement of negroes in the southern states. He seeks, as is evident, the reapportionment of seats in the house not in proportion to population, as I pointed out in my column, but in proportion to the number of negroes in the state. And then he rings in the same old Henry Cabot Lodge force bill, talk about "inequality," "injustice," etc. And this is the spirit that is going to cause a regular "battle hell" in the approaching congress.

Penalizing the South.
Whatever may be the poise and the apparent diplomacy of the old guard republican leaders with regard to the southern states, and despite the gains made in the republican vote in old democratic strongholds, the fact remains there is going to be continuous whacking at the south from the very beginning of the Harding administration; and these very leaders are going to wind up by penalizing that section just as the Lodge control penalized Georgia by the inflation of seats in the house upon it of a negro republican national committee man, in the face of a protest of nay that shook the auditorium in Chicago from cellar to ceiling.

BIG SLASH URGED FOR COTTON CROP

Memphis Conference for Drastic Acreage Reduction—
Revival of War
Finance Board Favored.

Memphis, Tenn., December 7.—Revival of the war finance corporation was endorsed at a conference here today of bankers, merchants and planters from all of the cotton growing states as a means of immediately remedying present depressed conditions in the cotton market and committees were named to perfect plans to bring about a drastic curtailment in production next year as a move to permanently stabilize the cotton growing industry.

On motion of W. B. Thompson, former president of the New Orleans cotton exchange, a telegram was sent to Washington tonight urging upon congress the need of immediately reviving the war finance corporation. Another resolution introduced today and referred to committee, asked that a special government census be taken of cotton of lower than tenderable grades.

Plan to Force Reduction.
Committees to devise means of enforcing a reduction in cotton acreage and the raising of greater food and feed crops, which leaders in the movement declare will amount to a curtailment of at least 50 per cent in the acreage planted in cotton, were named after addresses by Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, chairman of the conference, and other speakers who stressed the necessity of a cut in production and diversified crops as the logical solution of the situation now facing the southern planter, due to the present stagnant market.

Governor Parker suggested that bankers who do not extend credit to farmers who do not join the acreage reduction movement.

"Reduction in the past has always meant reduction for the other fellow," said Governor Parker. "To fix it so that the individual will not violate the plans of this convention your bankers should be memorialized to grant not one dollar of credit to the individual who does not live up to these plans."

Governor Parker urged the planters to sell their cotton at the present price now on hand to at least repay the bankers for money loaned for the making of the present crop. He also emphasized the importance of a tariff devised from an economic rather than a political standpoint as a protection against the cheap labor of other countries.

Half Crop Next Year.

Colonel Thompson predicted that the crop next year would not exceed six million bales, approximately one-half of a normal yearly crop. After outlining the course of the market in recent months, Colonel Thompson declared the reduction movement was made necessary by the appalling decline in prices. "We are told, by apologists for the ruthless deflation campaign to over-production."

"In spite of the fact that in the spring the farmers were urged and encouraged by financial authorities at Washington to produce all the cotton possible," Colonel Thompson continued, "we are, after the price has declined to figures which represent less than one-half actual cost of production, told that we have produced too much and must stand the consequences of such over-production."

"The answer to this is that we hold tight to every bale of the so-called surplus and that we will re-

"Let the world prepare itself for a five or six-million bale crop in 1921."

Wannamaker Not Present.
J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association, who was on the program for an address, was unable to be present at the conference.

Gerald Fitzgerald, of Clarkdale, Miss., a speaker at the afternoon session, explained the plan of the Mississippi delta cotton export and trading corporation to establish credit for the cotton shipped in Europe.

The committee named today, which includes a banker, merchant and farmer from each of the cotton growing states, will submit their reports to the conference tomorrow when final action to enforce the acreage reduction movement will be taken.

The conference probably will adjourn tomorrow afternoon.

(Special.)—A resolution calling for a cotton acreage reduction of 50 per cent for the year 1921 and the planting of lands so reduced in food and feed crops in order to place farms upon an absolutely self-supporting basis has been passed by the South Carolina division of the American Cotton association.

The resolution also calls upon the governor of this state to issue a special proclamation for a "cotton acreage reduction day," urging the farmers, merchants and business men to aid in securing pledges for an acreage reduction of 50 per cent and the granting of credits or renewal of credits in order to assist the farmers in carrying out their pledges.

The resolution condemns the policy of mills of buying only the best grades of cotton, the tying up of large sums of money in late-year commitments which could be used to advantage by agriculturists the removal of the war finance board and the general conditions that place cotton prices far below the actual cost of production. The resolution also calls upon South Carolina farmers to aid in winning the state branch of the association the trophies to be given for the highest per cent of acreage reduction, for the largest number of pledges for planting no cotton in 1921 and for the largest increase in planting of food and feed crops.

Georgia Boys Who Won Live Stock Judging Exhibition Are Home Again

Georgia boys and instructors who made a victorious trip to the international Live Stock exhibit in Chicago last week, winning the live stock judging contest against a field composed of representatives from seventeen other states. From left to right: L. M. S. Sheffer, assistant superintendent of agriculture in Georgia; Cleaves Jones, of Fayette county; Royce Breedlove, of Walton county; Ryburn Alford, of Fayette county; James Robinson, of Walton county; and M. E. Howell, instructor in animal husbandry in the agricultural college at Monroe.

After a victorious invasion of the middle west, Georgia boys who visited the international live stock exhibit in Chicago last week have returned to their homes, having defeated representatives from seventeen states in the greatest live stock judging contest of the nation.

The boys, Cleaves Jones, of Barnesville, A. & M. college; Royce Breedlove, of Monroe, A. & M.; Ryburn Alford, of Barnesville, and James Robinson, of Monroe, were accompanied on their trip to Chicago by L. M. Sheffer, assistant superintendent of agriculture for the state of Georgia, and M. E. Howell, instructor in animal husbandry at the agricultural college at Monroe. These lads were selected for the jaunt at the Georgia State fair in Macon during the fall, and before their arrival in Chicago were treated to a trip through the chief live stock sections of the country, including Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. On this part of the trip, the boys got considerable experience in judging horses and cattle, having already received abundant knowledge of how to judge swine during their work at the schools. The institutions which the boys attend paid the expenses of the trips.

For all four of the victorious Georgia lads, this trip was their first venture without the bounds of the state and they all report a most enjoyable and instructive experience. Their success in winning the big contest is heightened in importance by consideration of the fact that the scores of representatives from the other states who opposed them had all had more experience with actual live stock judging, in that they represented the country's chief live stock states. The final ranking was as follows: Georgia, first; Michigan, second; Iowa, third; Indiana, fourth; Illinois, fifth.

His Friend and His Wife

By COSMO HAMILTON.

Anna Hicks halted in front of them, brazen in her colossal effort. And in her embracing smile there was nothing to show her bitter chagrin in having been beaten by them both in her attempt to prevent their becoming engaged. In her own peculiar, unneeded way, she was a most remarkable woman, as much a menace to the general peace and well-being of a community as a strike or an epidemic. "What a day," she said, in her most dangerously cordial way. "God's in His heaven and all's right with the world sort of look every where. So nice, isn't it? I love it. I really do. It makes one feel so smooth and safe, don't you know. And aren't you both looking forward to the re-entrance of those two lovely people, Daisy and Julian, to their forgiving and affectionate set? I am. I'm quite excited and stirred. There will be sixteen of us in the party here—the men all healthy and muscular after this afternoon's golf and the women in frocks nobody's seen before. Mine's a dream. Fancy there not being a cloud in the sky! Wonderful, isn't it?"

She didn't wait for an answer, being aware that none was forthcoming. The cold antagonism of the two girls who barely missed being included in her long list of victims left her quite apparently unmoved. She smiled and waved her hand and steered her way to a group of young wives at the far end of the veranda, moving with that irritating jaunty gait that frequently put into Hicks' brain fantastic thoughts of murder. Her skirts were shorter, her heels higher, and her hips more massive than ever. What did nature mean by perpetrating so great an error?

With the tragic ten minutes on the Petersens' veranda still tingling in her memory, Mary Miller shivered as she watched her go. Hot and angry and on the verge of a most indiscreet outburst was how Elsa was left. Oh, what wouldn't she give for the delicious opportunity to make that Hicks woman squirm in public! Some day, perhaps, with luck. But not yet. Not until she and Gilbert had left the altar, and the mischief-maker had been driven out of Quaker Hill to sow the seeds of her poison ivy in another and distant community.

When she turned to her new friend to take her for a walk in the woods, among which the nasty taste in her mouth should be removed by their stillness and beauty, she saw a face so white and eyes so troubled that she cried out: "What's the matter?"

"Margaret," said Mary Miller, "and Bob."

"You heard that queer ring in her voice?"

"Good heavens, you don't think that she intends to give Margaret away?"

"It's the one ambition of her life now that all the rest of us have wriggled out of her clutches. I feel in my bones that she has a plan for tonight. Pass the word round that she must not be allowed to have one single minute alone with Bob. I tell you that that woman will never rest until she has revenged herself upon us by bringing misery to Margaret."

For a moment the usually capable and definite Elsa stood irresolute. There was absolute truth in what Mary Miller had said. She knew it. Poor old Bob was the only one left to be practiced upon, and somehow, all unsuspecting as he was, he must be saved. He must. He must!

"Let's go and see Frankie," she said, in almost comic desperation. And like frightened rabbits they hurried from the club.

Makes Addresses at Colleges on "Thrift"—Predicts Brilliant Commercial Future for Atlanta.

Orrin Lester, assistant director of the United States treasury, Washington, D. C., delivered the first of what will be a series of addresses on "Thrift" at Agnes Scott college at a 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. At 10:30 o'clock Mr. Lester made a talk upon the same subject at Oglethorpe university, and Tuesday afternoon addressed the students at the Girls' High school.

After his talk at the Girls' High, Mr. Lester expressed himself as being highly pleased with the educational institutions he had visited, saying that they were, in his opinion, much superior to those usually found in a moderately large city; while the people with whom he had met manifested a degree of culture, and an appreciation of the subject upon which he talked, that was very gratifying.

Discussing some of his impressions of Atlanta and vicinity, Mr. Lester asserted that, while he was unable to give an opinion upon the thrift of the people of this locality as compared with those of other sections he had visited, he was delighted with the progressive and business-like atmosphere of the city.

In an interview Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Lester discussed briefly the attitude of W. P. G. Harding, governor of the federal reserve board, to the farming interests of the country. He said that cotton and farming interests, as the mainstay of the prosperity of the southern states, must be protected, should, of course, be supported by loans from the local banks, in order that farmers might be enabled to secure funds wherewith to tide them over certain inevitable seasons of depression in the agricultural market.

But that in the present condition of the nation's finances, it would be manifestly unfair to the business interests of the nation as a whole for a financial body possessing such extensive power as the federal reserve board to lend a more marked support to the agricultural interests of the nation than it would be possible for it to extend in equal degree to other industries no less vital to the commercial life of other sections of the United States than are work in the Belgian Congo, where he will go early in the new year. From Nashville he will go to Georgia to visit relatives. Mr. Craig has accepted a call as business manager and treasurer for African missions of the Southern Presbyterian church. He will sail early in January for his new field of labor.

Historic Aprons At Christmas Bazar.

At the apron sale and bazar of the Florence Crittenton Home, the aprons are from nearly every state in the union, and from Paris and Porto Rico, also. The Oklahoma apron has this interesting history: This apron is donated by Mrs. James H. Bond, of Chickasha, Okla., better known as Aunt Adelaide. She is an Indian and a member of the Chickasaw tribe. Her father was an Englishman, who married her mother, a Chickasaw Indian, in Mississippi, and came to the territory when the Indians were transferred from Mississippi. Aunt Adelaide and a boy were born in the territory when the Indians were transferred from Mississippi. Aunt Adelaide went to New York, leaving the children with the grandmother, who would not let the father have the children and who raised them. The children never saw their father again until they had both married.

Aunt Adelaide has been twice married. Her first husband was Michael Campbell, native of Ireland, and to them one son and one daughter were born. The daughter is now dead, but the son, C. B. Campbell, is one of the wealthiest men in Oklahoma.

Mr. Campbell was a major in the confederate army and when coming home on a furlough was drowned in the Washita river.

After seven years "Aunt Adelaide" was married to James H. Bond, a native of England. He was a cattlemen and made a specialty of thoroughbred cattle and trotting horses, besides being the owner of thousands of acres of land. He was one of the wealthiest men of Oklahoma and died March 1920.

To them were born three children, two of whom are dead, the other, Reford Bond, is a prominent lawyer and has a government position as Indian attorney.

"Aunt Adelaide" was born on Christmas day, and is now 75 years old, and is beloved by the whole state of Oklahoma.

The bazar is being held at Kennedy's No. 5, South Broad street, Thursday, the 9th inst. All the friends of this splendid charity are invited to visit the interesting apron sale.

To Miss Stoney.

The beauty of flowers and the warmth of a delightful hospitality made happy contrast at Mrs. Charles C. McGee's tea yesterday to the gloom of the rainy, cold afternoon, which her guests braved to be present.

Miss Josephine Stoney, a bride-elect, was guest of honor, and invited to meet her were thirty of her closest friends.

Chrysanthemums, carnations and parrot decorated the house and formed the centerpiece for a handsomely appointed tea table, laden with silver dishes of dainty things to eat. Pink and white were the prevailing colors.

Mrs. McGee wore a smart gown of white fillet lace over black satin. Miss Stoney wore a becoming gown of brown net.

Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. Mae McAlpin will give an afternoon tea at her home on Spring street on Thursday, the 16th, in compliment to her guest, Miss Mary J. Daniels, of Maine. Also, Miss Ione Williamson and Miss Roselyn Amorous, brides-elect of January.

Moderate Prices At Catholic Bazar.

Attractive prices will be put on the articles in the bazar to be opened Thursday by the ladies of the Altar society, Sacred Heart church, in the assembly room of the rectory, 289 Ivy street.

There will be on sale useful and attractive fancy articles suitable for Christmas gifts; also dressed dolls, aprons, bags, Christmas cakes and home-made candies.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Christmas shoppers. The bazar will continue through Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

U. D. C. Meeting On Thursday.

The regular meeting of Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held Thursday, at 2 o'clock, at the Georgian Terrace hotel. Instead of the Congressional church. There will be held the regular business session.

Mrs. T. T. Stevens will give a report of the U. D. C. convention held in Asheville, N. C., in November. Thursday being the birthday of Joel Chandler Harris, a tribute will be paid that great southern genius, writer of folklore by Mrs. A. McPherson, president of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, of a representative from that organization.

An informal reception will be held at 4:30 o'clock in compliment to Miss Louise DuPre, the Atlanta girl in the motion picture world. Miss DuPre's mother, Mrs. Eady, is a member of Atlanta chapter, and will receive with her daughter, Mrs. Perdue, and other of the stars who are in Atlanta on Thursday. It is expected that Mr. Eugene O'Brien will also be present. Mrs. J. C. Williams, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Williams, will sing a group of southern melodies in compliment to Miss DuPre and the other stars. There will be informal talks by members of the chapter, and all members are invited to be present.

Miss Brittain Weds Mr. Stokes At Beautiful Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Mary Brittain, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Brittain, and Mr. Robert Nicholas Stokes, of Moultrie, was an event of social interest and prominence taking place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of the church, the double ring ceremony used and which was witnessed by a large assemblage of friends and relatives.

Decorations at Church.

The church was embellished with stately palms and handsome ferns. White Marie Antoinette baskets, the handles tied with fluffy white tulle bows, held Easter lilies and white candlesticks holding burning white tapers cast a soft glow over the wedding party. The organ, railing overhead was hung with trailing ropes of smilax, caught with Easter lilies at intervals.

Mrs. Harold Cooledge rendered a musical selection preceding and during the ceremony.

Miss Ida Brittain, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a becoming gown of Nile green chiffon taffeta, fashioned bouffant effect, and a picture hat of taffeta in the same shade. Her flowers was an arm bouquet of handsome white chrysanthemums tied with white tulle.

The bride's little sister, Miss Virginia Brittain, was bridesmaid. Her dainty frock was of white silk net, embroidered with crystal over white feathers.

Traveling Costume.

As a traveling gown Mrs. Stokes wore a stylish tailored suit of midnight blue French duvetyne, with collar and cuffs of beaver, and her

Sports Georgia Tech to Meet Yale in 1921

Telegram From Dr. W. T. Bull Indicates Proposed Battle Will Not Be Staged in 1921

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY

The "Golden Tornado" of Georgia Tech will not blow over the Yale bowl in 1921, according to telegrams received yesterday by The Constitution.

Dr. William T. (Billy) Bull, who was a member of the committee sent down by Old Eli to watch the Tech-Auburn game, sent this reply to a query addressed him by the writer:

"It is my understanding that Georgia Tech will not be on Yale schedule for 1921."

(Signed) W. T. BULL.

From New York, where Chip Roberts, Tech alumni representative, has been for several days in an effort to land a game for the Jackets, comes the following agent the Yale and Penn State struggles:

Georgia Tech has not as yet landed either Penn State or Yale university for its 1921 football schedule. There is still hope that Penn State may agree to take the place of Pittsburgh on the Golden Tornado's schedule, but a game with Yale seems out of the question. According to a statement by Tad Jones, the Yale coach, it is next to certain that the Ells will not add the Georgians to its schedule for next year.

This is the dream of Tech playing in the Yale bowl next year shattered, while the Penn State game is barely visible in the flickering light of the candle of hope.

Robert Returns Soon.

Chip Roberts is expected to reach Atlanta today for Thursday, and he is certain to have a long talk with the Georgia Tech officials. It is known that he has been in constant touch with the officials at Georgia Tech for the past few days, and while nothing definite has been decided, it is generally believed that Mr. Roberts has clinched a big game for the Tornado.

In the event the Yale game falls through, and from developments of yesterday, there is every reason to believe that it has, any number of institutions are asking for places on the Tech schedule for 1921. The Ells aren't quite so acceptable as Eli, they'll do in a pinch, and will be strong enough to interest the Tornado in addition to drawing a great attendance. A game with the Bulldogs of a Boston college-Tech game; a Notre Dame-Tech battle; a M. I. Tech encounter, and Penn State-Tech.

Bostonians Anxious.

Boston colleges want a game for the fans of the Ells, and the

RECORDS PROBE Will Be Boon to "Kangaroos"

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY

According to every present indication, summer baseball playing for college athletes, that is, of the paid variety, will be barred at the approaching meeting of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association in Gainesville, Fla. While the subject has not been touched on to our memory, such an action will be hailed with delight by scores of professional baseball players, who jumped organized baseball last summer for flings in the "Million-Dollar" and other leagues in the South.

With the competition from college athletes choked off by officials of the intercollegiate association, the contract jumpers from organized baseball will have a clear field, and an even more prosperous one, unless the low price of cotton prevents the semi-professional moguls from giving the princely salaries that will unquestionably be demanded.

Is Good Step.

We do not intend to assert that barring college players from summer baseball is not a good step when observed from the college angle. Distinctly to the contrary, it is, and the action should be adopted. It has been our opinion for months that professional baseball players and college pastimers should not be on the same payroll, and there was a hint shortly after the close of the diamond season that "outlaw" organizations would be forced to choose between professional players and college players.

It was thought that this plan would solve the problem of the college players, but after all, it is best to bar them completely. It will do away with many stars from various line-ups, but the colleges will gain in the long run.

There is no reason for plenty of argument on both sides, but the association directors hold the "whip hand" and are well within their rights to refuse to apply the last. Professional players will be barred, but the feature should not deter the officials of the S. I. A. A. from taking the business end of the deal, but a beneficial effect on college athletics in the South.

AMATEUR LEAGUES FORMED

The moguls of the newly organized Wilson league and those of the Girls' league met Tuesday night at Parks-Chambers-Hardwick company. The plans for the coming year and the organization of the two leagues were discussed.

Joe Sewell Is Laid To Retain Position.

There has been a bit of talking going the rounds that Tris Speaker would give the Indians a shake-up for the next season. Joe Sewell, the Alabama collegian and former Pelican star, would be affected by the change. Sewell, who is now with the Sporting News, Wilbur Wood has the following to say:

"Sewell was a time, just after Chapman was killed, that the Detroit club could have let Sewell come here. But the closing weeks of last season altered the picture. RED CROSS ROLL CALL RAISES $21,000 FUND

At a recent meeting of the executive board of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross, it was reported that in the last Red Cross roll call Atlanta produced a fund of $21,000 and several hundred dollars more to be credited to the treasury.

The report was made by Julian Boehm, president of the Atlanta chapter, which volunteered to be responsible for the recent roll call. Mr. Boehm explained that the committee, appointed from members of the Atlanta chapter, had received every contribution wherever the Red Cross appeals for membership. He especially commended the work of Atlanta women, and none of the Atlanta women, who had made their appeals for membership.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

EDITED BY W. A. HUGGINS

New Signs of Optimism Appear in Wall Street

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, December 7.—Until very recently, week after week and month after month, all signs in the banking and industrial outlook pointed plainly to an approaching period of overstrained credit, necessitating drastic liquidation. Today signs can be found which point in another direction. The burden of it is discouraging, and it is apt to continue so until the spirit of gouge is supplanted by a spirit of service. But to those with vision enough to see ahead of the present housecleaning there is much in the news that is encouraging.

For example, today's installment of news contains the information that there are still some spots in the stock market, new low records being made for Royal Dutch, Shell Transport, Willys-Overland preferred, American Agricultural Chemical and other shares on belated home and foreign liquidation. Then came the word that Midvale is to close down its main plant; that the Southern Pacific has laid off 2,000 shop men; that American Woolen is planning an auction sale for goods that could not be disposed of otherwise.

But, as opposed to this, Emory W. Clark, president of one of the large Detroit banks, was quoted here today as taking an optimistic outlook of the future. He admitted frankly that there are many men unemployed in his city; that the automobile industry is operating at only 30 per cent of peak production; that in silk, shoes and some other lines the situation is even worse.

But he adds: "Liquidation of merchandise and labor will be followed by improving conditions during 1921, and within three years, or when foreign exchange rights itself, a wave of prosperity to a magnitude hitherto undreamed of will sweep over this country."

Likewise, the Guaranty Trust company, the second largest financial institution in the country, has the following to say in a paid advertisement, pointing out that liquidation in labor and commodities was inevitable and wholesome: "We should plan accordingly for an immediate future with vision and courage—vision to see realities and courage to take advantage of unequal opportunities."

Copper Figures on Production

Today's production figures of four important copper companies for the month of November show an increase over October, despite the trade conditions. The figures are: American Copper, $1,200,000 against $1,000,000 in November; Ray, $875,000 against $800,000; Nevada, $350,000 against $350,000; and Ray, $875,000 against $800,000.

A lot of new railroad financing was announced today: Central Georgia has applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to issue $600,000 refunding and general mortgage bonds; $11,000,000 to reimburse the treasury for advances for improvements and betterments; $3,142,000 for refunding a like amount of prior bonds, and $1,557,000 for financing the purchase of new equipment.

Delaware and Hudson is asking for authority to issue $3,634,000 bonds to take care of outstanding convertible bonds; St. Paul is asking for a government loan of $251,000,000 to take care of a bond issue of like amount falling due January 1, 1921. The application last made has been before the commission three weeks. This loan, if made, may hold up dividend payments on the preferred stock.

Willys-Overland Outlook

Today's decline in Willys-Overland reflects belief that the dividend on the preferred share will be passed. That stock will sell ex-dividend on December 15, and the dividend has not yet been declared. It is understood here that bankers have agreed to do some financing for the company providing dividends on both the preferred and common shares are passed.

Directors of the United States Food Products are scheduled to meet the middle of next week. Today's price for the preferred shares says that the 6 per cent dividend will be passed. The income return at today's price, if the dividend were to be continued at its present rate, would be nearly 30 per cent. That is too much.

October Foreign Trade

With domestic business falling off, with the country-wide conference of bankers and business men to discuss means of financing foreign trade to be held at Chicago this coming Friday and Saturday, and with steps being taken at Washington to have congress revive the war-time foreign trade finance corporation, unusual attention was given by Wall Street to today's supplementary statement from Washington covering our October foreign trade. These reports are made public in three installments.

The first, given out ten days ago, was a surprise to Wall Street. Hearing on all sides stories of hard times from export and import companies, Wall Street was prepared for a heavy falling off in our exports. Figured in dollars, the statement showed, despite the heavy decline in commodity prices, exports of $752,900,000, an increase of $146,000,000 over September and the largest for the year, with the exception of March. The second report, covering the items included in exports, made up $316,000,000 of the total. These three items alone accounting for $87,000,000 of the $146,000,000 increase over September, made Wall Street realize that our shipments of other less seasonal goods were falling off.

Today's report covers the countries to which our October exports were shipped. It shows that England, the best of all to pay for what is bought here, purchased during October $4,000,000 less goods, while shipments to other countries were increased as follows: Chile, $1,000,000; Brazil, $3,000,000; Italy, $4,000,000; Argentina, $8,000,000; Germany, $12,000,000; France, $13,000,000; Mexico, $11,000,000; Canada, $19,000,000; Cuba, $24,000,000.

These figures tell their own story as to why our foreign trade is now taking the center of the stage in all financial discussion. We are already in to the extent of between $14,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000. The situation calls for the most statesmanlike efforts of our financial leaders are able to put forth. So far there has been no concerted action whatsoever; but signs are now appearing that our financial leaders and captains of industry are awake to the need of some big concerted, constructive plan.

peers and a leading Canadian silver mine suspended dividends. No action from its stock at momentous course was shown by the money market, but foreign exchange rates fell sharply on the London silver market.

Bonds were mainly lower on diversified dealings, but international was more active. Total sales, par value, $16,300,000. U.
